The HABS and the HABS NOTs:

Documenting the Architecture of Newburyport in the Historic American Buildings Survey

The newest "must-have" book on Newburyport architecture, published in conjunction with the NPT, takes a look back at the federal program that advanced historic preservation throughout the U.S. in the 1930s. The large-format case-bound volume presents the crisp analog photos and elegant measured drawings for the HABS surveys conducted in Newburyport, a small city especially known for the riches of its authentic 18th- and 19th-century domestic architecture. The "HABS Nots" Gallery then looks at the future of preservation in the once down-and-out but rejuvenated city. Newburyport's smaller-footprint historic homes, never the subject of the attention lavished upon its Georgian and Federal-style showplaces, fill the city's 750-acre National Register Historic District and contribute to its ambiance. Yet their authenticity is at the greatest risk of being lost to the "march of progress." Compiled and authored by R.W. Bacon, the book includes chapters on the economic history of Newburyport; the origin of the HABS program; and other efforts at documentation. Also included is a guide to 300 years of house styles in Newburyport, plus topical bibliographies for the history and preservation enthusiast. $35.00 postpaid.
